

Danelle Bohane

2002-2006

Danelle Bohane is a photographer who had a clear vision that photography was what she wanted to pursue as a career when she left Epsom Girls Grammar School. She had always felt like there was nothing she could excel at, but after the encouragement from her teachers and her parents she felt the confidence in following her passion as a career.

After photographing weddings for friends, she realised how much she enjoyed it and her career grew from there. She is now an award winning wedding photographer who gets to travel around the globe doing what she loves. She was regarded as one of the 100 Best Wedding Photographers in the World from Nicholas Purcell Studio in 2015 and received NZ Classic Wedding Photographer of the Year and Highest Scoring Monochrome Print in 2013. She also has done work for Hello May magazine and for the Together Journal.

She thinks her greatest and proudest achievement is the fact that she creates images that have a really deep emotional attachment to families and that will be passed down for generations.

“Don’t be afraid to follow your passion and don’t worry about other people’s expectations of you.”