

Kate Hawkesby

1986-1990

Kate Hawkesby has had many successes throughout her career as a radio announcer and television presenter. Kate was raised in a family that openly discussed world news and politics, and from there her interest in journalism grew.

After time overseas, Kate took an internship at TVNZ which led to a variety roles, such as co-hosting the Breakfast Show and hosting the Late News. Among Kate's proudest achievements is the fact that she raised five children whilst still working hard and maintaining a successful career in a male dominated field.

Kate has also had other amazing successes, such as being nominated Finalist in the TV Awards Best Presenter category 5 times. However, Kate states that her greatest achievement is raising her five children.

"Follow your passion and find what works for you."
