

Petra Bagust

1987-1989

Petra Bagust came to EGGS in 1987 to finish her final years of high school. She was immediately drawn to the art department, where she squeezed out every last opportunity that Epsom gave her. This led her to complete a bachelor of fine arts at university.

Petra worked hard at everything that she did, whether it was her studies or her part time job, she put 100% in. This hard work came with opportunities that lead her to a career in the media. She is mostly recognised for being a co-host of the morning show 'Breakfast', but says that her greatest achievements (beside her beautiful family) are the shows 'What's really in our food?' and 'Life' where she got to laugh and capture life as it happened, but she also influenced the lives of young people to eat healthier. It made her feel emotionally wealthy to be able to make such a difference to the people that she worked with lives.

Petra advises current EGGS girls to "take your responsibilities and everything you've been given seriously!"

"Be brave and kind to one another because you're all at the beginning of your own story. Use all the amazing resources EGGS has to offer."
